

His speech Tony Blair said that a [REDACTED] "is an excellent format for the 21st century and will be the main way of working, and it is the format that we will use in the future" (Blair, 2001, p. 12) and in the first of his government speeches to the House of Commons (Blair, 2001, p. 12) and in the first of his government speeches to the House of Commons (Blair, 2001, p. 12). "I would like to see the 21st century as a 21st century" (Blair, 2001, p. 12). Blair's speech was published in the House of Commons and in the House of Commons, but it also was published in the House of Commons and in the House of Commons.

Blair's speech "The 21st Century" (Blair, 2001).

"Blair's speech to the House of Commons on 22 February 2001" (Blair, 2001).

Blair's speech to the House of Commons on 22 February 2001, published in the House of Commons, 22 February 2001, available at http://www.parliament.uk/parliamentary_documents/2001/02/22/22feb01.htm.

Blair's speech to the House of Commons on 22 February 2001, published in the House of Commons, 22 February 2001, available at http://www.parliament.uk/parliamentary_documents/2001/02/22/22feb01.htm. Blair's speech to the House of Commons on 22 February 2001, published in the House of Commons, 22 February 2001, available at http://www.parliament.uk/parliamentary_documents/2001/02/22/22feb01.htm. Blair's speech to the House of Commons on 22 February 2001, published in the House of Commons, 22 February 2001, available at http://www.parliament.uk/parliamentary_documents/2001/02/22/22feb01.htm. Blair's speech to the House of Commons on 22 February 2001, published in the House of Commons, 22 February 2001, available at http://www.parliament.uk/parliamentary_documents/2001/02/22/22feb01.htm.

The 21st Century has been defined as a new era of globalisation and a new era of globalisation.

1. The 21st Century has been defined as a new era of globalisation and a new era of globalisation (Blair, 2001, p. 12).
2. The 21st Century has been defined as a new era of globalisation and a new era of globalisation (Blair, 2001, p. 12).
3. The 21st Century has been defined as a new era of globalisation and a new era of globalisation (Blair, 2001, p. 12).